Rare Coin & Consumer Fraud

If you purchase a product or a service, you are a consumer. Many consumers purchase products or services over the internet or on the phone. Unfortunately, thousands of people have been defrauded by companies or individuals seeking to make money, at the consumer's expense. If you have purchased a product or service and did not receive what you purchased or did not receive exactly what you ordered, you may be entitled to damages. Consumer investment fraud has become a big problem. Whether it is stocks or rare coins, consumers are often tricked into investing large sums of money with guarantees of large returns on their investments. Often, high-pressure sales tactics are used and the consumer is bombarded with phone calls from a "broker" who will not accept "no" for an answer. If you have purchased "rare coins" and would like to know the value of what you purchased, please contact us immediately. We will have your coins appraised for free and answer any questions you may have regarding your investment.

Toxic Torts & Silicosis

Toxic Torts occur when a person is injured as a result of ingesting or breathing a toxic substance. Almost everyone has heard of "asbestosis" or the term "asbestos." Asbestos is a toxic fiber that enters the lung and causes massive scarring, severe lung impairment, lung cancer and death. Silicosis is an occupational lung disease resulting from the inhalation of silica dust. Silica dust is generated from a wide variety of operations, but mainly sandblasting and foundry work. Other jobs that create silica dust are: cutting concrete, grinding sand or concrete, cutting drywall and construction work. When sand is blasted at a high pressure against a hard surface or used in mechanical operations, it fractures into small particles that are capable of entering the lungs. The silica then causes massive scarring, severe lung impairment, lung cancer and death. The Gibson Law Firm has successfully handled thousands of silicosis claims. If you have been exposed to silica dust, please call us immediately. The Gibson Law Firm also handles a wide variety of other toxic torts, including persons who have been exposed to Benzene and other chemicals at the workplace. If you worked with chemicals such as Benzene and have been diagnosed with an illness, including cancer, please call us immediately so we can evaluate your case and discuss your legal options.

Business Disputes

The Gibson Law Firm represents businesses who have been wronged by other businesses or individuals. All kinds of business disputes can arise, but the most common disputes center around interference with an existing contract or business disparagement (saying bad things about another's company, causing economic losses as a result). If your company has suffered because of the wrongful acts of another person or company, please contact us immediately to discuss your legal options.

Falling Merchandise

Many of the "superstores" across the country have made the conscious decision to store merchandise on the top of shelves, over the heads of consumers who are shopping below. Rather than storing merchandise in storage rooms located in the back of the store, merchandise is now stacked to dangerous heights along the aisles of stores to reduce overhead and the cost of a bigger store and a bigger piece of property. Unfortunately, families (including children) are being injured and killed because of falling merchandise. The Gibson Law Firm has been very successful in handling falling merchandise cases against some of the giants in the "superstore" business. The Gibson Law Firm has successfully tried falling merchandise cases to verdict and received punitive damages, punishing stores for their conscious decision to place merchandise at dangerous heights. If you or a loved one has been injured by falling merchandise, call us immediately to discuss your legal options.

Whether the product is a tire or a drug, manufacturers must make sure that products are designed and made safely and that adequate directions and warning labels are available. The Gibson Law Firm has successfully handled a wide variety of defective product claims. If you or a loved one has been injured by a dangerous or defective product, please contact us immediately to discuss your legal options.

Wrongful Death

Generally speaking, a wrongful death is a death caused by another's negligence, recklessness, malpractice, or inaction. A pedestrian killed by a drunk driver, a woman murdered by her ex-husband, a child struck and killed by a careless teenage motorist - these are all examples of wrongful deaths. In such cases, the families of the deceased can file wrongful death personal injury lawsuits on their loved ones' behalves. These civil lawsuits, which do not bear any criminal charges, help families recover damages for pain and suffering, lost wages, mental anguish, loss of companionship, medical costs, and other expenses. If you have lost a loved one to wrongful death, you may be entitled to significant damages. Immediate family members - including parents, spouses, and children, are almost always eligible to file a claim, although minors may need an adult guardian to take a wrongful death lawsuit to court. Additionally, other family members - such as stepparents, grandparents, and dependents, may also be permitted to file suit in some states. If your family has experienced a loss, please call us immediately to discuss your legal options.
